Andrew Hockenberry	1	ahabstracts@gmail.com	Breaking Point	Oil paint, Charcoal, string, Canvas, wood,		price upon request		I define my style as subconscious abstract, painting without consideration of the end result. I do not believe in mistakes or editing the way I have manipulated the surface. Using music as a rhythm and flow to my paintings, I make each piece balanced while experimenting with alternative applications and materials. It's as simple as paint on surface, surface being anything to hold paint, paint being anything to make an impression on surface.
Anna Pasztor	1,2,3	videographer.ny@gmail.com	“Hidden Blue”	Acrylic on Canvas and Wood	8” x 8”	price upon request		ARTIST STATEMENT of ANNA PASZTOR for the Exhibition “SURVIVING COVID” The year spent under the lockdown because of COVID was a very strange year for me. I belonged to the lucky ones. The lockdown opened up new possibilities for me that were life saving and life changing. In April of 2020, I joined the Lab Ensemble of NowNetArts and participated in weekly presentations through the Internet until the end of June. The ensemble was originated by a sound research program, and most of the members are musicians. Our “demonstration presentations” were concerts with structured music improvisation. I belonged to the few members who are or visual artists or performers. Since I have practice in both genres I could alternate my contribution. On occasions I danced and other times I presented videos and live painting while the musicians were playing. That’s how my music improvisation painting series started. I followed the impulse of the music in my choice of color, shape, texture, and started several canvasses during one presentation. They stayed as initial visual problems that I later finished alone. All of the submitted pieces were initiated during these presentations and inspired by music presented by the ensemble. Even if the pieces went through complete transformation during my lonely work, they are imprints of those moments we spent together creating art and sharing that with the world defying the angst and death that surrounded us in those days

Anne Stanner	1, 2, 3	AnneStanner@msn.com	“Surprise!”Mask	Assemblage of Found Metal Objects	11” x 11x 1.5”	$700.00		At the start of the pandemic a year ago, I finished modeling two small clay pieces (a female head and a figurative nude) that I had been working on. In addition to my apartment in the East Village, I am fortunate to have a home and studio with a kiln and welding equipment upstate in the Hudson Valley. I was able to fire these pieces, along with a few others that I had completed prior to the lockdown. After that, I had to deal with a health problem (not Covid-related) and, unlike some artists facing adversity, did not have the motivation to do sculpture. During much of this past year, I did work on researching, reviewing, and editing thousands of photos of nearly all my artwork, to prepare for a new website I plan to have designed and built.
			“NOH” mask	Assemblage of Found Metal Objects	9” XZ 11” X 2”	$700.00		Fast forward to the last few days of March 2021. As a result of being invited to apply to this exhibit, I became excited and had the urge to create new work. In fact, I completed two pieces; both are wall sculptures. These are a continuation of a series that I began about 30 years ago: masks whose base is a stove burner that is assembled with other found metal objects and welded together. There has been a long hiatus as I had not worked on this series in 20 years. These pieces are playful and spontaneous. I think that because I have gotten the vaccine, I am more optimistic about surviving the virus into the future and feel free to have some fun with my artwork

Antoinette Maclachlan	1	thaishiworks@gmail.com	Mangrove Backwaters	color pencil	14" x 9" unframed 16" x 12" framed	upon request		I've been a resident of the East Village for 25 years, but for the past 14 years I have been to India every winter to do art projects with the girls in the red light district of Mumbai, and study and sketch South Indian temple art and architecture. Last year I was in Kerala when India went into a total lock-down on March 24, I had no idea when I'd be able to leave. The few repatriation flights were oversubscribed, besides, I was in a remote place and unable to reach them. Fortunately, I had a sketch book and some color pencils, so, to soothe my anxieties, I decided, on April 30 th , to do a drawing a day, and write on the back like a diary. What I thought would be three weeks turned into almost three months. I filled the sixty page sketch book. Finally on June 16 th I was able to get a repatriation flight out. My lock-down drawings not only sustained me through the long period of limbo and anxiety, but also helped me experience this place, that I've been going to for 15 years, in a deeper way, noticing more, trying to capture life and the culture itself, fearful that once I finally left, I might not be able to return. It also led to an ongoing dedication to my own artwork. During the past year I have expanded to watercolors, abstract landscapes, and of course, back here in NYC, I continue to do figure drawing at Minerva's, particularly the Nicholaides class, that has helped immeasurably to suspend my own judgment and try new ideas and techniques. The full lockdown story and all entries are up on my instagram page @antartindia

Ciaran Tully	1-12	ctully0@gmail.com	Cityscape	Acrylic on wood				I was born and educated in Ireland. After graduating from High School, I joined a firm of Architects, in Dublin, as an entry level draughtsman. As a draughtsman I became intrigued with photography and bought my first camera and immediately began talking photographs and later printing my work. My first portfolio got me into college where I studied the history of photography and learned the more technical aspects of the camera. I graduated in 1987. My work from those early years always left me with a great feeling of expectation, a feeling which stays with me to this day. In 1990 I moved to New York City and became a freelance photo assistant working diligently with photographers from all disciplines. I learned a great deal from all of them. To supplement my income I would sell my work in cafes and this led me away from commercial work and back toward art and architecture where I can express my love for cityscapes and landscapes. When I am not taking photographs I like to draw and paint and make things out of wood.

Cynthia Reynolds	1,2,3	cynthia@cynthiareynolds.net		Photograph		$250.00		Cynthia Reynolds I use discarded packing materials I find on the streets of NYC to create sculptures and installations, sometimes casting them in other materials, sometimes building with them directly. I'm interested in their spaces, the trust we place in them, their complete lack of value, and the fact that they are almost never popped before they are thrown away. When the pandemic hit, I had been painstakingly cutting apart air pillow packaging so that only the plastic actually required to contain the air would remain. It is actually quite stressful, because even a minor slip of the tiny scissors I use means it basically no longer exists. Fortunately, the predictable anxiety of this fake danger and the focus the process requires made it the perfect foil to the nightmarish first days of lockdown. I cut and arranged some of the surviving excised channels in the grate of the fire escape door of my sixth floor walkup in the East Village, and I took hundreds (thousands?) of photographs of them during all times of day. For me, they constitute a diary of my pandemic experience, as they document the very mediated relationship we all suddenly had with the outside world. Two of the submitted images are from this group. A third documents a temporary installation I did in a friend's window in Little Italy. I would also be thrilled to do a site-specific temporary installation of bubbles for the exhibition if that's an option.

Eileen Doster	2 & 3	eileendosternyc@gmail.com	Luminous Samovar	watercolor on paper	14” x 11”	$400.00		Shortly after the onset of the pandemic, I became ill. I had to stop teaching and I was in bed for two and a half months. My three children cared for me and ran our home. As their father had recently passed this was an unsettling time for them and for myself. One year later I am still unable to teach and am considered a long-term covid patient in addition to my other pre-existing health problems. I began doing small to midsize work in my home as opposed to my studio. I work when I am able and when I become short of breath or dizzy, I lay down. I often think of the artist Frida Kahlo, who painted in bed during her many periods of ill health. One of the things I like about an in-home studio is looking at a work in progress before going to sleep and looking at it again upon waking. My senses are sharper and it helps me develop a keen relationship with the work. I believe many artists are well suited for periods of shut down if they have an isolated way of working, or technology can assist them in their purpose. The covid pandemic has increased the intimacy in my work. I am an "Intimicist". I believe in the quality of interaction between the art and the viewer. At this time in history, we are enticed to interact with a screen, all alone, as opposed to interacting with another human being or a handmade object. It is, for this reason, I venture that the importance of making art cannot be overestimated.

Ethan Shoshan	1,2,3	disiterate@gmail.com	Who Will Survive In America	charcoal & graphite on paper	9” x 12”	$600.00		STATEMENT These drawings of public and private spaces (interior and exterior) are in various states of gentrification throughout a 15 year span. I’ve been paying attention to signs, juxtapositions of context, abandoned storefronts, scaffolding, development and making beautiful line drawings that are almost hypnotic and emblematic of the instabilities in what is going on right in front of me. Although these drawings are very illustrative, they also portray signs and signage in a new context. The craft of drawing helps me to focus, to pay attention to the details otherwise lost in common view, conceptualizing the drawings as a meditative way of seeing and being present. These drawings capture some very private fleeting moments that make New York City so special to me, preserving some of these thoughts, experiences, ideas, communities and hope.

			From the series of Signs”GUTS”	charcoal & graphite on paper	9” x 12”	$600.00		BIO I am an artist, community activist, and non-profit computer a/v technical consultant committed to building communities and support around social justice, art and activism. Living on my own at an early age has taught me how to care for myself and others, motivating me to continue to focus on art as a cathartic creative reimagining and a way to shed light on social injustices. I am currently the creative director of Empirical Nonsense, a location-less cultural arts space based in the lower east side, and was previously the interim director of the Feature Hudson Foundation, a foundation dedicated to Hudson’s life through his creative contributions and unique vision to the arts and cultural experience as an artist and as the art dealer of Feature Inc. I have been a working artist for over 15 years with solo exhibitions at Envoy Enterprises (NYC), Aljira (Newark, NJ), Commonwealth & Council (Los Angeles, CA), The Center for Book Arts (NYC), Le Petit Versailles (NYC) and Gene Frankel Theater (NYC). In 2017, I self-published an artist book edition, breadcrumbs , at MoMA PS1 for Printed Matter’s NY Art Book Fair with Allied Productions Inc. I co-developed/ran an art program with Sylvia’s Place shelter for queer trans youth from 2013 - 2017. This social practice program later evolved into a working collective with numerous exhibitions and institutional support. My current body of work focuses on displacement, gentrification, and growing concerns of capitalism by focusing on drawings of abandoned places and public signage. This body of work comes out of my past dedication and work at a housing advocacy organization, Picture the Homeless, previous art and food programs at Sylvia’s Place Emergency Shelter, my own housing situation, and living in New York City. I am the recipient of several grants/fellowships from Joan Mitchell Foundation, Open Society Foundation, New York Foundation For the Arts, Lower Manhattan Cultural Council, and The Puffin Foundation. My work has been reviewed in The New York Times, Art In America, The Brooklyn Rail, Artforum, ArtNEWS, Washington Post, LA Weekly, Huffington Post, BlackBook, among numerous other publications.

Francine Lange	1,2,3	franceonisland@gmail.com	Golden Suspension	photograph	8” x 10”	$125.00		Artist Statement When New York City shut down in March 2020, businesses in my East Village neighborhood closed and locked their doors -- it was as if the world had stopped “mid-sentence.” As the cacophony of nonstop construction ceased, blaring car and truck horns fell silent and the shouting and laughter from the bars faded to nothing, I headed to one place that was open to me, my community garden. There, at Albert’s Garden, on E. 2nd St., as I visited regularly, I sat and watched as the plants and trees grew and changed. I saw the koi fish in our pond swimming as they always did, around and around, only darting to the surface for fish food I tossed to them or flies that floated on the water’s surface. I documented the beauty and serenity of the garden, photographing patterns and colors and movement, everything that had been there before but that seemed to be amplified by the absence of the urgent, demanding city. I created work, yes, but also meditated in my work, finding an enhanced beauty in a place I’ve visited for several years now. Interestingly, because of the pandemic, I gained a new appreciation for this calming place, an unexpected gift. (And wonderfully, Albert’s will reopen to the public in the summer.)

Glenora Blackshire	1 if framed	glenniefilm@yahoo.com	Hare Krishna Bench	Photograph	12" x 12"	$350 framed; $150 unframed		Glenora Blackshire Surviving Covid Artist's Statement Hare Krishna Bench - shot November 30, 2020 During the mild months of winter 2020 I spent many nights sitting in front of the Hare Krishna Tree in Tompkins Square Park. It is a place that makes me feel centered and grounded. My mother used to drink her morning coffee there. I spent one of the happiest moments of my life lying on the frigid February ground beneath the tree to watch a full moon eclipse with my two young daughters. With my mother gone, and my two daughters recently out of the house, I would go to the Hare Krishna Tree when I felt lonely. There was always someone that I knew that I would run into, there. But during that first Covid winter, Tompkins was open later than usual, and I would often be there alone. I took many beautiful pictures of that tree, during that time. One night I took a shot of the full moon through the branches, and it looked like an eye. The next day, some artist who must have seen the same thing, brought a large abstract drawing on plywood of the eye, and set it up against the trunk. The tree just gave and gave to me this winter, in terms of comfort and inspiration. But I think this bench shot says it all about surviving Covid. These benches are never empty—even late at night. During this season, they often were. But the tree was there to keep me company. It always is.

Kristan Enos	1,2,3	kecamera@gmail.com	"Stretch"	Acrylic on canvas	18" x24"	$500.00		Kristan Enos instagram.com/kris.enos/ I am a NYC based artist living in the East Village for thirty six years, with a background in photography. For over forty five years I have shot large, medium, and small format, film negative, Polaroid and Fuji instant, along with digital images. Originally taught to paint by my maternal grandmother starting at age seven, I moved away from it in my early twenties. When the global pandemic of COVID19 became a grim reality in the New York City area, jobs and businesses shut down during the lockdown of 2020 rolling into 2021. To keep our sanity, New Yorkers and all East Village artists that I knew, found new and different ways to express their art. While continuing to shoot pictures I gravitated back to my roots to the more tactile medium of painting to find peace. The subject matter of the piece "Waiting" 9"x12" 2020, came out of the turbulence of the 2020 Presidential election. "MoonDogs" 12"x36" 2021, is a vision that I once saw, also called a paraselene. It is a relatively rare bright circular spot on a lunar halo caused by the refraction of moonlight by hexagonal-plate-shaped ice crystals in cirrus or cirrostratus clouds. Moon dogs appear as part of the 22° halo, roughly 10 Moon diameters outside the Moon. "Maelstrom" 10"x10" 2021, is a straight downwards view of the great whirlpool off the coast of Norway Bio: Kris Enos is a long time resident of the East Village. After studying filmmaking at The New School, and photography at The School Of Visual Arts, he has worked as a freelance filmmaker, still photographer, and feature film crew member. Enos joined the Cinematographers Guild in 1994. His feature film credits include Black Swan, Inside Man, and A Beautiful Mind, among many others. His still work has been published in the photography books, Thinking in Pictures, Body/Image, and in Vogue Italia. He has shown works in galleries in New York City, Burlington, Vermont, and Cincinnati, OH. Enos has presided on the executive board of the non-profit artist group, Artistas de Loisiada Foundation for many years, recently promoted to vice president. He lives with his sculptor wife Kathy, in Alphabet City.

Leslie Lowe	1&2	nefernegra@gmail.com	Nukumi's Scars	oil pastel on black paper	12"W x 9"H	$350.00		1. "Nukumi's scars" pastel on black paper, 12" x 9" Earlier this year I came across an article on April 11th in the 'Irish Mirror' regarding a Great White Shark that was given the moniker 'Nukumi', which means 'Grandmother' in the language of the indigenous tribe Micmac from Nova Scotia, where she is believed to be from. It has been conjectured that she swam south towards the Carolinas, then started to bear east across the Atlantic at a clip of 44 mph, having covered 1700 miles by when the article appeared. Having been tagged by oceanographers, it's been discovered that she is pregnant and therefore swimming such a distance to avoid predators, especially aggressive male sharks. Her age is gauged at 50 years due to her scars. As a significant birthday of my own approached, I was struck that her age was gauged by her scars. If MY age were gauged the same way, I'd be a lot older than fifty. This drawing was done from a screen shot of a video I found on the internet.
			Untitled	oil pastel on black paper	9" xW 12"H	$350.00		2. "Untitled" pastel on black paper, 9" x 12" This started out as a self portrait to mark the aforementioned birthday. Rather than a 'self' portrait, what appears is someone that barely resembles me, that another face, another personality came through. As often drawing or painting to me is much like a seance, my curiosity is piqued as to who (or what) came through.

Meg Boe Birns	1& 3	marbirns@gmail.com	Blues Bird	mixed media	20" x 18"	price upon request		Artist's Statement I am an artist, but am also a Literature teacher and literary critic . I teach literature at The New School and at NYU and publish academic articles as Margaret Boe Birns, but I show as an artist under the name Meg Boe Birns. I have always though I had a Literature Self and an Art Self, and the slight difference in name expresses that. My Art Self works with paint, canvas, papier-mâché, clay, wood, metal and found objects to create pieces that do not subsume the materials within the content, but instead make the materials part of the subject matter. Whether abstract or figurative, my work will often integrate tactility into a design, but it is not the product of a conscious or intellectual plan; I believe I work within an intuitive context, as though the imagery springs directly from unconscious in the manner of automatic writing. This belief speaks to the three intuitive female artists for whom I feel a special affinity--Leonora Carrington, Yayoi Kusama, and, especially the fiber artist Judith Scott. Like the Andersen's Duckling, these are the Swans I want to swim with.

Ruth Oisteanu	1,2,3	ruthoisteanu@gmail.com	Orign of the Species	paper collage	11.5" x 8.5"	$500.00		Ruth Oisteanu Artist Statement March 2021 During the dark days of the early lockdown, due to Covid 19, in March of 2020,I decided to cheer up my friends and family by sending them mini artworks on postcards. This combination of collage and mail art was received by about 50-60 people. These postcards helped me as well, so I decided to graduate to larger works that took me outside the Gloom and Doom of Covid and into a better imaginary worlds. Hours and hours of cutting and pasting grew into 2 notebooks and lots of single works on paper. Some of these collages are on display here, and many others appeared on my Instagram account under the name beadsbug. Hope you can check them out!!!!

Acrylic, paint pen, canvas collage on board 22"x 22" 4/17/21. This painting is an explosion of Pandemic restrictions and those of easing restrictions to those that are vaccinated and to encourage vaccinations among groups, and all the confusion that goes with it. Things are changing and opening up but we have not received the guidance of what we can and cannot do in a still but changing pandemic environment. In this we are also dealing with climate change-pollution clouds, exploding plants, invading plants, and Native plants we need that are scheduled to be destroyed as part of the East River project, currently fiercely being fought by activists. Rising waters and how to deal with them, with wet lands and the earth as a sponge as opposed to manmade efforts that are questionable at the least, all tally in to my thinking although it might not all be apparent. Van Gogh’s bedroom painting emerged out of this only because of it being one of my favorite paintings from childhood and on to adulthood found its way into this-I added a room and it became Van Gogh’s bedroom, that got a do-over but we’re all looking at the same stuff and more and what to do about it.

We're OK Really"or "Everything That Happened in the Painting Did" Acrylic, canvas collage and paint pens on board. 18"x 18"1/29/21. This painting has so much about the block I live on which is vibrant, although it was at one time more vibrant. Landlords that forced long term tenants out due to a discrepancy in their lease and also some that took buyouts changed our landscape so much. At one time we had musicians practicing their instruments and their music going through the apartment buildings and out on to the street. I think in later years more people complained, maybe suburban transplants that were not accepting the city as something that was actually happening before they arrived-they wanted to adjust it to what their comfort level was...I personally loved it-coming home to the Sax, the Trumpet, the Piano and even the Drums announcing themselves from the windows and fire escapes. This was my New York. I loved my mornings hearing a live piano concert from a floor below and out the window. This is New York City. We’re silently being sanitized. Look around your apartment-consider your dirt level-NYC apartments require constant cleaning due to dust. If you are rent-stabilized you are responsible for years of dust. If

			Rox on the Roof Ox on the Potted Plant Saved From the Cat”	Acrylic, Canvas, Collage Pencil on board	15" x 15”	price upon request		you move in and move out you have no responsibility and unfortunately no responsibility to the community. My question to new residents or transplants-Will you join us-in the community we have that can continue to be built? “Rox on the Roof Ox on the Potted Plant Saved from the Cat”. Acrylic, canvas collage, and paint pens on board. 15”x 15” 1/2/2021. This painting is an extension of imagery that began in earlier paintings, with an Ox on a roof and imagery of rocks that became Rox. It doesn’t mean anything, but could mean a lot-(kind of DADA), and is really just a lot of ramblings of stuff real and imagined. Winter, people being stuck at home-it’s just goofy-a collage of drawings and cut-outs I was having fun with-it’s of course my neighborhood-my block to be more specific. It’s also about climate change and environmental issues-smoke clouds and over grown invasive plants or plants that clean the air, as well as the animal of choice, an Ox, who is part of the cow family. An Ox is a work animal that cannot reproduce however young female cows, Heifers, can also have the muscle strength of an Ox, and perform the same duties as a young Cow, and then subsequently bear calves and become a supplier of milk. It’s about stuff underground, above ground, real or imagined. A lot of fun. And yes, this is what goes on in my head. I do want to add I was not home everyday dealing with the pandemic isolated, I was actually working 10 hour days 5 days a week and this is what I did at night to “unwind”. I was an essential worker.

I took some very big decisions to focus on my work, my art and my wife, Ruth. First for the sake of my health, I stopped smoking everything. I dedicated much of my time to finishing several books of collage and poetry. I also kept in check my depression, asthma, and accelerated aging. The results are generally good. But the loneliness of an artist cut from live interactions with other artists, critics and art lovers is an immense handicap that in no way can be replaced by Zoom. We can never return to the past; the future must be more modest.
